

‘Potential is unlimited’

Ed Taylor, Tribune

September 28, 2009

The Federal Aviation Administration has agreed to contribute $8.9 million to expand the Charles L. Williams Passenger Terminal at Phoenix-Mesa Gateway Airport, officials report.

GROWTH MARKET: An artist's rendering, above, shows the proposed passenger terminal expansion at Phoenix-Mesa Gateway Airport. Nearly 1 million people will be able to arrive and depart annually through the terminal once the expansion is completed, Mesa Mayor Scott Smith said Monday.

ANNOUNCEMENT: Western-Pacific Region FAA Manager of Airports Division Mark McClardy, left, speaks while Queen Creek Mayor and Phoenix-Mesa Gateway Airport Authority board member Art Sanders looks on after the news of an $8.9 million grant to the airport to help construct the passenger terminal expansion.

<http://www.eastvalleytribune.com/story/145058>